*Nitze, Bradlee
Candidates for Harvard Board*

Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze and Benjamin C. Bradlee, managing editor of The Washington Post, are among 12 candidates for six places on the Board of Overseers at Harvard University.

Election will be by mail ballot of Harvard degree-holders and results will be announced at Commencement on June 16. Overseers, elected for a six-year term, make up Harvard's senior governing board.

Nitze is a graduate of the class of 1928 and Bradlee the class of 1943.
